What is the Statewide Family Engagement Centers competitive grant program?

The newly enacted Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) includes the Statewide Family Engagement Centers (SFEC) program, which provides competitive federal grants to statewide organizations to promote and implement evidenced-based family engagement strategies. If the SFEC program is funded, applications for these competitive grants can be submitted to the U.S. Department of Education by statewide organizations such as non-profits or by groups of statewide organizations that have demonstrated involvement in engaging families in their child's education and experience working with state-level agencies, communities, organizations and schools on family engagement policies and practices.

Support Funding for Statewide Family Engagement Centers in FY 2017!

Why do Statewide Family Engagement Centers need funding?

Schools would need to increase spending by more than $1,000 per pupil to gain the same results as effective family engagement.²

Teachers are more likely to remain in schools where families are involved and where they are able to develop trusting relationships with families.³

What do Statewide Family Engagement Centers do?

Statewide Family Engagement Centers have three core functions:

1. Work with state and local-level agencies to support family engagement.
2. Provide professional development to school districts and educators on evidence-based and effective family engagement strategies and practices.
3. Provide direct services to families on how to effectively work with their child's school and teachers to improve their child's academic outcomes and overall well-being.

National PTA's Ask

National PTA requests that Congress fund the Statewide Family Engagement Centers (SFECs) grant program at a robust funding level—no less than its authorized level of $10 million set as part of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA)—in the FY 2017 Labor, Health and Human Services, Education and Related Agencies (L-HHS-ED) appropriations bill.
